

REMARKS

Claims 1-3 are pending in this application and claim1 has been amended in order to more particularly point out, and distinctly claim the subject matter to which the applicant regards as his invention. It is believed that this Amendment is fully responsive to the Office Action dated April 17, 2003.

Claim Rejection - 35 USC §103

Claims 1-3 are rejected under 35 USC §103(a) as being unpatentable over Yoshioka et al. (U.S. Patent No. 5,909,688) in view of Nguyen (U.S. Patent No. 6,202,070), and further in view of McCain et al. (U.S. Patent No. 6,330,482).

Yoshioka et al. describes an information management system for managing related information items in a process control schedule. A database (7) is used to store information related to offices, departments, personnel, tasks, budgets, workflow, and reports. Pointers are utilized to link related pieces of information.

Nguyen describes a method of manufacturing personal computers and particularly to custom installation of software for each given computer. Each personal computer is effectively a custom-built machine in which the customer can specify certain hardware and software components to be installed on each machine. The system is able to configure the proper operating system, device drivers and applications required by each individual machine based upon customer requirements.

Atty. Docket No. 001499

McCain et al. describes a hand held device for providing detailed diagnostic and maintenance information. Using this device the operation of machines on the factory floor may be continuously monitored.

The present invention is an information management system for a punch press or lathe in which the parts book, drawings, and documents concerning the design, production, operation, installation and maintenance of the machine tool may be maintained.

Therefore, claim 1 patentably distinguishes over the prior art relied upon by reciting,

"An information management system for manufacturing machines comprising; a database that manages input and output in addition to memory of individual machine information, which is a body of information concerning each manufacturing machine as products of a company, said individual machine information including parts books, drawings and documents that cover designing, procurement, installation and production, as well as wishes of customers obtained before designing in addition to maintenance information obtained after the start of the operation of the manufacturing machine in ad industrial manufacturing facility; an information processing means for each of said company department; and an access means that is installed in each of said information processing means which is capable for performing addition and updating of said individual machine information, wherein each manufacturing machine is a punch press, a lathe, a laser cutting machine or a machining center used in the industrial manufacturing facility for production." (Emphasis Added)

Therefore, withdrawal of the rejection of Claims 1-3 under 35 USC §103(a) as being unpatentable over Yoshioka et al. (U.S. Patent No. 5,909,688) in view of Nguyen (U.S. Patent No. 6,202,070), and further in view of McCain et al. (U.S. Patent No. 6,330,482) is respectfully requested.
